

Instructions for reviewers

Thank you for agreeing to review this article. The following questions may help you in providing feedback to the author:

1. Do the title and abstract reflect the content and aims of the article adequately?
2. Are there adequate references to relevant research in the field?
3. Is the article well written and organized?
4. Are the methodology and the research design suitable?
5. Does the article offer new insights and contribute to the development of the subject?
6. Does the article need to be proofread by a native English speaker?
7. Does the article speak in an accessible way to its audience or is it too technical and/or jargonistic?

After due consideration, can you please choose one of the following recommendations for the editor:

- Accept
- Accept after minor revision
- Major revision
- Reject

Notes

Please offer additional comments and provide feedback to authors with specific suggestions for improvements. As an author, I'm sure you have appreciated the feedback you have received in the past as a result of the peer review system.

Do you have any confidential comments that you would like to pass on to the journal's editor regarding the suitability of this manuscript?

Are you happy to check revisions made by the author(s) responding to your original review?

Please be assured that the peer review process is double blind and that strict anonymity is afforded to both the author and the reviewer.

As a token of our appreciation for your contribution, our journal now offers reviewers the option to claim credit for their review and get recognition for their effort and time, while retaining complete anonymity. If you have not already, please consider registering with Publons <https://publons.com/account/register/>, the peer reviews recognition site affiliated with Web of Science, Elsevier, Endnote, and others. Once you have completed your review, you will then be able to claim it on Publons by emailing your confirmation email to reviews@publons.com. Information on how to claim your review with Publons will also be included in your confirmation email.

Thank you in advance for your assistance.