House Style

At Intellect we use Intellect Harvard, our version of the Harvard referencing system, with in-text citations. The Harvard system was developed in the United States in the 1950s and 1960s, and since then it has become the most commonly used system in international academic journals. Harvard is flexible and simple, easy to use for the author as well as the reader.

There are a number of excellent examples of Harvard referencing systems on the internet such as:

- https://library.aru.ac.uk/referencing/harvard.htm
- https://library.leeds.ac.uk/referencing-examples/9/leeds-harvard
- https://www1.uwe.ac.uk/students/studysupport/studyskills/referencing/uwebristolharvard.aspx

Please note that the styles on these sites may deviate from Intellect Harvard. If in doubt, the rules in this guide take precedence.

Additionally, please feel free to direct any queries you may have to naomi@intellectbooks.com or your production manager.

---

Alternative Styles for Books

While Intellect would prefer authors to follow our own house style for books (Harvard), we also offer copy-editing in the following styles:

- APA (7th edition)
- MLA (8th edition)
- MHRA (3rd edition)
- Chicago (17th edition)

Journal style is non-negotiable, and follows house style unless specified on the journal webpage.
Consistency

We follow standard UK English, using the Oxford English Dictionary or the Oxford Dictionary for Writers and Editors.

Our stylistic rules are based on New Hart’s Rules, although there are variations.

We have a preference for ‘ize’ over ‘ise’ endings (e.g. ‘organize’, ‘globalize’) in cases where both are correct under UK English. See Using ‘ize’ Endings.
Abbreviations
Unless commonly known, abbreviations should be spelt out in the first instance, with the abbreviated form in parenthesis: e.g. ‘information and communications technology (ICT)’. Commonly used abbreviations include Ph.D., BBC, UN, MA, Dr, Ltd, St.
See ‘Preferred Spellings’.
Please spell out the names of countries (e.g. European Union, United Kingdom, United States), these should only be abbreviated when used as an adjective (US policy, EU Social Fund, etc.).
Do not confuse e.g. (meaning ‘for example’) with i.e. (meaning ‘that is’).
Book titles, journal titles and other text that usually appears in italics will produce abbreviations in italics.
For example:
Dictionary of National Biography is abbreviated to DNB
Oxford English Dictionary can be written as OED
Journal of Contemporary Chinese Art is abbreviated to JCCA

Acknowledgements
In a journal, acknowledgements should appear at the end of the article under the heading ‘Acknowledgements’, not as a footnote attached to the title. In a book manuscript, Acknowledgements will be part of the front matter, following the foreword or preface.

Brackets
Our preference is for curved parentheses ( ) when these are needed for citations, digressions, translations, etc. Nested brackets within these should be square brackets ([ ] ) for clarity. Within this, return to curved brackets ( [ ] ). Square brackets are also used within quotes for insertions, amendments or ellipses [...].

Bullet points
Various punctuation rules are acceptable with bullet points. Lists that are made up of full sentences usually start each item with a capital letter and end each item in a full point. Lists that are made up of sentence fragments usually start each item with a lowercase letter and end each item with a comma, semicolon or no punctuation. Our preference is for the last item in a list to end with a full point; without this, text-to-speech readers or assistive technologies may not mark the end of the list correctly.
Capitalization
Title case means that nouns, adjectives, pronouns, possessives and verbs are capitalized. Articles, conjunctions and prepositions are lower case.
Sentence case means that the first word is capitalized (as well as any proper nouns or commonly capitalized terms). Capitalization of foreign titles follows the rules of the language.
See 'Foreign language titles'.

Capitals following colons
In UK English, the word immediately following a colon is in lower case, unless it is a quote, display quote, or a subtitle in a reference list. In US English only, a capital letter may be used after a colon if the following text is a complete sentence. See New Hart’s Rules Chapter 5.2 for guidance.

Captions
Images should be referred to as Figure 1, Figures 2–3, etc.
Please note the colon after the figure number and the terminating full point, even if the caption is not a full sentence. Please do not place endnotes within a figure caption.
The following is the agreed style for captions, and as much information as is available should be provided. Correct use of ‘Courtesy of’ or © is the responsibility of the author.

Artwork

For example:

Book/journal/newspaper illustration

For example:

Film still
For example:

Contractions
Contractions should be spelled out in academic writing: e.g. ‘don’t’, ‘didn’t’, ‘I’ll’ should be ‘do not’, ‘did not’, ‘I will’, etc.

Currencies
Currencies should be in numerals preceded by symbols (£, $, €) or three-letter currency codes (GBP, EUR, USD, AUD). Codes are especially useful if there are different versions of the dollar referred to. The use of symbols or of codes should be consistent throughout the text.

For example:
£20, £30.50, $20 million, €30,000
GBP 20, GBP 30.50, USD 20 million, AUD 20 million, EUR 30,000

Dates and times
Specific day: 21 March 1978 (September 11 or 9/11 is permitted)
Decades: 1920s, 1950s–60s
Date ranges: 1964–67, 1897–1901
Approximate dates (circa): use c., in italics, with no space: c.1960
Centuries: nineteenth century, twentieth century, twenty-first century (but ‘a nineteenth-century woman’)
Twelve-hour clock: use a full point and p.m. or a.m. (5.30 p.m., 6 a.m.)
Twenty-four-hour clock: use a colon and no a.m./p.m. (17:30, 06:00)
Specific moments in time-based media: use hours, minutes and seconds separated by colons (05:00:06–05:06:11)

Emphasis
When italics are used for emphasis within quotations, authors must indicate whether the emphasis is from the original text or whether they are adding it to make their own point: (Smith 1999: 2, original emphasis) or (Smith 1999: 2, emphasis added).

Bold type should not be used for emphasis, or in the names of organizations or exhibitions. Italics should be used sparingly, as they are also used for other purposes. If an author wishes to draw attention to a word or phrase, roman type inside single quotation marks can also be used.

Foreign language titles
The rules governing the capitalization of titles in some languages, such as French and German, are complex. See New Hart’s Rules Chapter 12 for guidance. It is not strictly necessary to provide translations of non-English-language titles. However, if you would like to provide English translations for titles in other languages, see the relevant sections in References:

See 'Translations of foreign language book titles', 'Translations of foreign language journal titles' or 'Foreign film'.

Foreign words

We follow the Oxford Dictionary for Writers and Editors for foreign words that are in popular use in UK English (e.g. a priori, mise en scène). Unless specified otherwise in the 'Preferred Spellings' list or dictionary, foreign words and phrases inserted in the text should be italicized. If translations are provided, they should be in single quotation marks within brackets: l’oiseau (‘the bird’). Capitalized proper names of foreign organizations, institutions, political parties, trade unions, etc. should be kept in roman type, not in italics. Quotations from other sources that are in foreign languages do not need to be italicized.

Front matter and end matter

Roman numerals are used for front matter page numbers. Any material provided should be ordered as follows:

- Half title (main title)
- Frontispiece (if there is one)
- Full title page
- Copyright info page – verso of full title page
- Dedication and/or epigraph
- Contents
- List of plates, figures, maps and tables (new page for each)
- Foreword and/or preface
- Acknowledgements
- Notes on the text/transliteration
- Conversion tables for imperial measures, currency, etc.
- List of abbreviations
- General map(s) relevant to the whole book.

Endmatter should be ordered as follows:

- Appendices – Appendix 1, Appendix 2, etc.
- Bibliography
- Notes on Contributors
- Index.
Funding information
If your work has been funded, you must include the funding organization name and the award number in your Acknowledgements section and/or metadata form.
See ‘Acknowledgements’.
For example:
This research was made possible through a grant from Qatar National Research Fund (NPRP9 309-5-041).

Hyphens and dashes
Hyphens are used to avoid mispronunciation, particularly where there are two vowels or two consonants together (anti-intellectual). A hyphen can also be used to avoid confusion where a prefix is repeated (re-release, sub-subcategory) or to avoid confusion with another word (reform/re-form, re-cover/recover). Hyphens are also used in compound adjectives (nineteenth-century women, free-range egg).
Note that we use an en rule (–) with space either side, rather than a hyphen (-) or an em rule (—), as a parenthetical dash.

Lists
Bulleted and numbered lists are both allowed, depending on author preference. When numbered lists are incorporated within a paragraph, the numbers should be formatted as ‘(1) (2) (3), etc.’. If the list is displayed with items one below another, the numbers should be formatted as ‘1. 2. 3., etc.’.
See ‘Bullet Points’.

Notes
We discourage the use of extensive notes – if something is worth saying, it is worth saying in the text itself. If a note is necessary, please use Word’s note-making tool and create endnotes (not footnotes). Once typeset, notes will appear as endnotes in books, and sidenotes in journal articles. Place note calls outside the punctuation, i.e. after the comma, full point, colon, etc. The note call must be in superscript Arabic (¹, ², ³).
As Intellect’s House Style uses the Harvard referencing system, citations should not be added to endnotes. Sources should be cited in text, and in a reference list. Please do not place endnotes within a figure caption.

Numbers
One to twenty (in words), 21–99 (in figures)
100, 200, 1000, 1500, 5000, 10,000
Note: we use 10 million (not ten million, as this stands for a number higher than twenty)
Numbers in a range, up to 100, both numbers appear in full: pp. 10–19, 19–21
After 100, only the last two figures of the second number are shown, unless more are Approximations can be in words: around thirty, over forty, almost fifty Ages: 15 years old, a 7-year-old child
3 per cent, 4.7 per cent, 10 per cent, 25 per cent. See ‘Percentages’.
16 mm, 35 mm, 6 km².
Note: we prefer ‘feet’ and ‘inches’ spelled out in words, rather than symbols ' and "

ORCID® identifiers

ORCID iDs are unique, career-long identification numbers for authors. They are similar to ISBNs for books, or DOI numbers for journal articles. Authors should provide iDs whenever they submit work to us. ORCID iDs must be supplied with the prefix https://orcid.org/ in order for us to auto-update publication records and connect with publishers, institutions and funders worldwide.

For example:
https://orcid.org/0000-0002-1825-0097

If you do not yet have an ORCID iD, please register at https://orcid.org/register.

Percentages

We use ‘per cent’ rather than ‘%’. ‘%’ is only acceptable if a series of percentages are given within a paragraph, for example, in a statistical survey. Percentages should always be expressed in figures not words (3 per cent, 10 per cent).

Personal pronouns

Capitalize the initial letter in personal pronouns (e.g. He, Him, His) only when referring to God. Do not use this form when referring to prophets or founders of the world’s religions (e.g. Abraham, Bahá’u’lláh, Buddha, Jesus, Muhammad, etc.).

Quotations

We use single quotation marks, with double quotation marks for a second quotation contained within the first.

All long quotations (i.e. over 40 words long) should be ‘displayed’, i.e. set into an indented paragraph with a line space above and below, and without quotation marks at the beginning or end. Any quotations within this display quote will then have single quotation marks.

Omitted material in quotations should be signalled by an ellipsis enclosed in square brackets: [...]. Square brackets should be used if you choose to add details into a quotation, change a quotation’s opening capitalization, or change tense so that the quotation agrees with your sentence grammatically.

For example:
Prior reveals the folly of the situation when he states ‘[t]his is my ex-lover’s [Louis’] lover’s Mormon mother’ (Kushner 2003: 101).
When italics are used for emphasis within quotations, authors must indicate whether the emphasis is from the original text or whether they are adding it to make their own point: (Smith 1999: 2, original emphasis) or (Smith 1999: 2, emphasis added).

When authors provide translations of quotations from non-English-language sources, they must indicate whether this is an official translation (Smith 1999: 2, official translation), or their own (Smith 1999: 2, translation added).

See ‘Foreign words’.

Reviews: Book/exhibition/performance/film
When submitting a review for a journal, the following information should be provided in this order:

Book review
Title of Publication, Author or Editor Name/s (ed./eds) (Year), Edition number if not first, City: Publisher, number of pages, ISBN 123-1-12345-123-1, h/bk or p/bk, price

For example:

Exhibition/performance review
Title, Artist Name, curated/performed/directed by Name Location, City, date or date range, year

For example:

Film review
Title, Director Name (dir.) (Year), Country: Production Company

For example:
Bring It On, Peyton Reed (dir.) (2000), USA: Beacon Pictures

Serial comma/Oxford comma
Please do not use a comma before the ‘and’ or the ‘or’ between the last two items of a list. A comma is only required before ‘and’ if you are joining two independent sentences with a conjunction.

Subject areas and titles
In general, titles appearing before a name are in capitals: Professor Jones, Managing Director Emma Smith, Senior Lecturer Carston.

Capitals are also used when a title acts as a synonym for a specific person or place: the Queen, the Ministry, etc.

Titles appearing after a name are not normally in capitals: Tom Jones, the professor; Emma Smith, managing director of the company; Carston is a senior lecturer, etc.

Lower case is used when a job title is referred to in a general sense: a professor, the marines, every queen in the world, etc.

Abbreviations of academic qualifications with a mix of upper- and lower-case letters (such as Ph.D., M.Sc.) take full points. Full points are not used for abbreviations made up of upper-case letters only (such as MA, BA, MFA).

Note the difference between Master (upper case) and master’s (lower case, with apostrophe). If you have a master’s degree (abbreviated to master’s), then you are a Master (of Law, of Art, etc.). Similarly, if you have a bachelor’s degree, you are a Bachelor (of Art, of Science, etc.). If you have a doctorate, you are a Doctor, etc.

For example:

Jack Smith, Ph.D., is a senior professor in the Department of Theatre Studies at the University of Victoria. He specializes in contemporary performance practice, pedagogy and theatre education, and earned his master’s at the University of Sydney.

The punctuation rules for job titles and subject areas vary and can be confusing – we are occasionally able to follow authors’ preferences if requested.
References

Citations

- House style citations are embedded in the main text in Author Date format.
- When citing a quotation from text-based media, n.pag. may be used if there are no page numbers available (i.e. for an online source).
- If there is no year available, n.d. may be used.
- If there is no place of publication available, n.p. may be used.
- Quotations from non-text-based media (i.e. film, music, DVD, television, vlog, radio, artwork), do not require reference to a page number within the citation.
- Multiple citations within the same sentence can be listed in any order, separated by semi-colons.
- References by the same author are separated with commas.
- Authors or artists cited in other works should be formatted as follows: (Williams cited in Hughes 2012: 54). This should be listed under the secondary work (i.e. Hughes) in the references.

Citation:
(Surname Year: Page [or n.pag.])

For example:
(Harper 1999: 27)
(Anon. 2012; Rainer 1965)
(Benjamin 2005, 2009)

References

- Do not split bibliographies into ‘Further Reading’ or ‘Works Cited’.
- All items should be listed alphabetically by authorship.
- Works from the same author or source should be listed together chronologically, with the earliest work listed first. Any works with (n.d.) are listed underneath those with a date.
- If there are multiple works by the same author, the author or source name should be repeated for every reference.
- If the original publication date of a historical work is provided, as well as the date of a modern edition, the original date may appear in square brackets before the date of the modern edition used: ([1830] 2005). The chronological order follows the modern edition date, not the date in square brackets.
- ‘Ibid.’ and ‘op. cit’ are not used in Harvard referencing.
- ‘et al.’ must be used for in-text citations for works with three or more authors, but all author names should be provided in the references.
● Our preference is for authors’ full first names. If a full first name is not available, initials can be used. The use of full first names or of initials should be consistent across your reference list (not a mixture of two formats). Understandably, use of all initials or all first names may vary across an entire journal issue or edited book, but each article or chapter reference list should be consistent with itself.

● ‘Anon.’ should be used for items for which you do not have an author.

● When film or book titles are cited within another title, they should be formatted according to Intellect House Style i.e. film/book titles are set in roman font within an italicized reference, or italics within an article/chapter reference.

● If there are no pages available, n.pag. may be used.

● If there is no year available, n.d. may be used.

● If there is no place of publication available, n.p. may be used.

● In title case, nouns, adjectives, pronouns, possessives and verbs are capitalized. The second part of a compound word is also capitalized. Articles, conjunctions and prepositions are left in lower case.

● Capitalization of foreign titles follows the rules of the language. See New Hart’s Rules Chapter 12 for guidance.

● Our preference is for USA and UK (rather than US and UK or United States and United Kingdom) when stating country of production for film/TV/music references.

We have provided some examples of reference types below. Occasionally you may need to cite a source not specified below – please follow the example type that is most like your source.
1. BOOKS

Book titles should be in italicized title case. Book chapter titles should be in sentence case within single quotation marks. For the city of publication, US states are indicated using a two letter abbreviation, unless the state is deemed unnecessary (as in New York, NY).

Books with a single author

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Title, City: Publisher.

For example:

Citation:
(Anon. 1957: 5)
(Auslander 2007: 56)

References should be alphabetized by author surname, taking multiple authors into account. Rules for non-English names are complex. See New Hart’s Rules Chapter 6 for guidance. In general:

- Names containing the French prefix ‘de’ should not be alphabetized under ‘D’.
- Italian authors with a ‘di’ or ‘da’ prefix are commonly placed under ‘D’.
- Dutch authors with a ‘van’ prefix are placed under ‘V’.

For example:
di Robilant, Andrea (2003), A Venetian Affair, New York: Knopf.

Citation:
(Surname [with prefix] Year: Page)
(de Beauvoir 2014: 89)

Books with multiple authors

Separate authors with a comma, using ‘and’ instead of a comma before the last author name. All names are in the order Surname, Name. Please note, ‘et al.’ should be used within citation text for books with three or more authors, but all names must be provided in the references section.

Reference:
Surname, Name and Surname, Name (Year), Title, City: Publisher.

For example:
Citation:
(Saunders et al. 2016: 78)

Edited books
Editors are indicated with (ed.) or (eds). The abbreviation (eds) does not need a full point: (eds) not (eds.). The editor is referred to using ‘Initial. Surname’ rather than their full first name.

The year should be that of the edited collection. If the chapter/article has been published elsewhere, the date of the original publication may appear in square brackets before the date of the edition. The chronological order follows the later edition date, not the date in square brackets.

See ‘Later editions/reprints/multi-volume works’.

Listed under chapter author
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of chapter/article’, in Initial. Surname (ed.)/(eds), Title, City: Publisher, page range.

For example:
Citation:
(Flieger 2011: 47)

Listed under editor
Reference:
Surname, Name (ed.)/(eds) (Year), Title, City: Publisher.

For example:
Citation:
(Frank 2003: 60)

The editors’ names may be omitted if the reference is to a chapter of the edited book written by the main editors, or if there are no other contributing authors or editors (e.g. within a collection of an author’s own work).

For example:

Citation:
(Jeffreys and Allatson 2015: 215)

Later editions/reprints/multi-volume works
The following abbreviations are used for later editions, multi-volume works and reprints. See ‘8. Unpublished works’, for how to reference forthcoming titles.

For example:

Original publication: If a work has been published previously, the original date may be given in square brackets before the date of the edition you are using. The chronological order follows the modern edition date, not the date in square brackets.

For example:

Reprint: Rpt. in

For example:

For example:

Second volume: vol. 2, note the ‘v’ is lower case.

For example:

Multiple cities of publication
Multiple publication locations should be indicated as ‘City and City: Publisher and Publisher’ (not & or /). North American states are indicated using a two letter abbreviation unless the state is deemed unnecessary (as in New York, NY).

For example:

Citation:
(O'Donoghue 2017: 43)

Multiple works by the same author
References by the same author should be ordered from oldest to most recent. References for the same author with the same year should be distinguished using a, b, c, etc. within the parenthesis. 'Ibid.' and 'op. cit' are not used in Harvard referencing. The author or source name should be repeated for every reference.

Solo edited works appear in date order with the monographs – the inclusion of (ed.) does not affect the order. Co-authored titles appear after the monographs/solo edited works, as the inclusion of a second or third name does affect the alphabetical order.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year a), Title, City: Publisher.
Surname, Name (Year b), Title, City: Publisher.

For example:
Žižek, Slavoj (2006b), Interrogating the Real, New York: Continuum.
Žižek, Slavoj and Daly, Glyn (2004), Conversations with Žižek, Cambridge: Polity.

Citation:
(Žižek 2006a: 54)

Books in a series
When books are in a series, the series name appears after the book title, in title case without italics.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Title, Series Title, City: Publisher.

For example:

Citation:
(Margolis and Tyler Renaud 2010: 57)
Translated works

Where an editor and/or translator are named
When an editor and a translator are named in addition to the author, the editor is listed first in parenthesis after the title.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Title (ed. Initial. Surname, trans. Initial. Surname), City: Publisher.

For example:

Citation:
(Lacan 1988: 34)

Translations of foreign language book titles
It is not strictly necessary to provide translations of non-English-language titles. However, if you would like to provide English translations for titles in other languages, use the format below.

Unofficial title translations
Unofficial translations of book titles (i.e., those made by the author for explanatory purposes), are set in sentence case, roman type, in single quotation marks within brackets. This also applies to other reference types.

See ‘Translations of foreign language journal titles’, or ‘Foreign film’.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Original Title (‘Unofficial translation’), City: Publisher.

For example:
Maupassant, Guy de (1885), Bel Ami (‘A good friend’), Paris: Victor-Havard.

Citation:
(de Maupassant 1885: 23)

In the text:
Original Title (‘Unofficial English title’) then Original Title thereafter. Note that the unofficial translation should be in sentence case.

Official titles
The official titles of published translations follow the same format as the original title. Alternative book titles should be set in italics within brackets:

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Original Title (Official Translation), City: Publisher.
For example:
Citation:
(Beckett 1951: 12)
In the text:
Original Title (English Title) then English Title thereafter.

E-books and pdfs
These appear in a similar style to other journal references, but a URL and accessed date are included. If there are no pages available, then n.pag. should be used in citations. If there is no date available, then n.d. may be used. Original publication year may be referenced using square brackets. There is no need to specify [online] in Harvard referencing.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Title, City: Publisher and/or Collection, URL. Accessed date.

For example:
Citation:
(Carpentier 2011: 34)
(Conan Doyle [1907] 2004: n.pag.)

Dictionary

Listed under a specific word
Reference:
‘word cited’ (Year), Dictionary Title, edition, City: Publisher, URL [if available]. Accessed date.

For example:
Citation:
We suggest citing the title of the dictionary and year in text, to avoid repeating the specific word you are discussing:
(OED Online 2016) rather than (‘footnoting, n.’ 2016)

Listed with no specific word
Reference:
Dictionary Title (Year), edition, City: Publisher, URL [if available]. Accessed date.
For example:

Citation:
(Encyclopaedia Britannica 1991)

Play and scripts
For a printed publication/script of a play, emphasis is given to the author first. The play is referenced as a book.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), Title of Play, Series or Edition (ed./eds Initial. Surname) [if applicable], City: Publisher.

For example:
Kane, Sarah (2001), Sarah Kane: Complete Plays (eds D. Greig and K. Brown), London: Methuen.

Citation:
For a specific quote, citations may include the Act, Scene and line number. Citations may also use the (Author Date: Page) format if that is more appropriate for the play.
(Title of Play Act. Scene [in numbers or numerals as provided]: line numbers)
(Twelfth Night II.V: 36–37).
(Kane 2001: 35)

Poetry and short stories
Poems and short stories should be referenced in the collection that they appear in, unless unpublished. Titles for poems and short stories appear in title case within quotation marks. Editors’ information may also be provided if available.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of Poem/Short Story’, in Initial. Surname (ed.)/(eds) [if applicable], Title of Publication, City: Publisher, page range.

For example:

Citation:
(Fitzgerald 2012: 13)
2. JOURNAL AND NEWSPAPER ARTICLES

Article titles should be in sentence case within single quotation marks. Journal, newspaper and magazine titles should be in italicized title case.

Print journal articles
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of article’, Journal Title, volume:issue, page range.
For example:
Citation:
(Overdiek 2016: 32)

Special issue or special section
Entire Special Issue or Section
To cite an entire Special Issue, provide the editors and the title of the issue in title case without italics.
Reference:
Surname, Name (ed.) (Year), Journal Title, Special Issue/Section: ‘Title of Special Issue/Section’, volume:issue, page range [if applicable].
For example:
Citation:
(Bolton 2015: 21)

Article within Special Issue or Section
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of article', Journal Title, Special Issue/Section: 'Title of Special Issue/Section', volume:issue, page range.
For example:
Citation:
(McCoy 2018: 112)
Newspaper articles
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of article or column header', Title of Newspaper, date and month, page range [column line if appropriate].
For example:
Citation:
(Asthana et al. 2016: 4b)

Online magazine or journal article
These appear in a similar style to other journal references, but a URL and accessed date are included. The magazine/newspaper or journal name should be in italics in title case. If there are no pages available, then n.pag. should be used in citations. If there is no date available, then n.d. may be used. There is no need to specify [online] in Harvard referencing.
See ‘Websites’.
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of article', Title of Magazine/Journal, volume:issue, date and month and/or page range [if available], URL. Accessed date.
For example:
Citation:
(Bashforth 2016: n.pag.)

Online newspaper articles
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of article', Title of Newspaper, date and month, URL. Accessed date.
For example:
Citation:
(Asthana et al. 2016: n.pag.)

Reviews
Unless the review is given an original title, book/conference/exhibition reviews should be clearly indicated using ‘review’.

Reference:
Surname, Name [of reviewer] (Year), ‘Title of review’, review, Journal Title, volume:issue, page range, URL [if available], Accessed date.

For example:

Citation:
(Keddie 2000: 243)

Translations of foreign language journal titles
We do not recommend providing translations for every non-English-language article title. If a translated article title is necessary, use the format below. Note: this is the same for official and unofficial translations.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Original article title’ (‘Translated article title’), Journal Title, volume:issue, page range.

For example:
Kayser, Jacques (1954), 'Une semaine dans le monde' ('A week in the world'), Etude comparée de, 17:1, pp. 1–35.

Citation:
(Kayser 1954: 33)
3. OTHER SOURCE TYPES

Archive material
Archive sources are often referred to by the MS number and/or the main title and author. Both are allowed. As much information as is available should be provided.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title'/Title/MS Number or description [see below for an example of each of these], date and month, City: Name of Library/Archive/Repository, Collection, MS Number [whichever available].

With title
For example:

Citation:
(Harris 1969: 23)

With MS number
For example:
MS 42523 (1889), ‘letter by David M. Thompson’, 13 June, St Andrews: University of St. Andrews Library Special Collections.

OR
Thompson, David M. (1889), MS 42523, 13 June, St Andrews: University of St Andrews Library Special Collections.

Citation:
(MS 42523 1889: 9)
(Thompson 1889: 9)

With description
For example:

Citation:
(Peacock 1960: n.pag.)

Comic books
Comic book series title and number should be in italics with title case. Note the use of #. Individual issue titles are set in single quotation marks in title case, no italics. Standalone graphic novels should follow the referencing style for a book.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of Issue', Comic Book Series Title #Number, City:
Publisher.
For example:
Citation:
(Wein and Wrightson 1971: 2)

Conference and symposium papers

For example:

Citation:
(Title of Act Year: section or page) (Criminal Justice Act 2003: § 44.3.2.a)

Law report and court case

N.B. this follows accepted legal citation, rather than Intellect House Style. The names of the two parties are set in italics, title case: Name v. Name.

Reference:
Name v. Name of parties involved in the case (Year), abbreviation part number/case number, starting page [if available].

For example:

Citation:
(Name v. Name Year: page)
(Lessard v. Schmidt 1998: 483)

Personal interviews

Interviews may be cited in text and included in the references, although this is not compulsory for casual or informal conversations.

Reference:
Interviewee Surname, Name (Year), type of communication with Initial. Surname of interviewer if [appropriate], location [unless e-mail or telecommunication], date and month.

For example:

Branson, Richard (2014), in-person interview with J. Doe, Birmingham City University, 4 July.

Robson, Paul (2008), e-mail to author, 1 December.

Citation:
(Björgvinsson 2009: n.pag.)
Published interviews (TV/radio/magazine)

TV

Reference:
Interviewee Surname, Name (Year), interviewed by Initial. Surname, Title of Programme, Channel/Station, date and month.

For example:
Abbott, Diane (2016), interviewed by A. Marr, The Andrew Marr Show, BBC One, 1 May.

Citation:
(Abbott 2016: n.pag.)

Print

Reference:
Interviewee Surname, Name (Year), interviewed by Initial. Surname, Title of Publication, volume:issue, page range, URL. Accessed date [if available].

Reports by organizations

Reference:
Surname, Name OR Organization Name (abbreviation) (Year), Title of Report, Report number or series [if available], City: Publisher/Organization [if available]. If online include URL and Accessed date.

For example:

Healey, Mick, Flint, Abbi and Harrington, Kathy (2014), Engagement through Partnerships; Students as Partners in Learning and Teaching in Higher Education, York: Higher Education Academy.

Citation:
(BIS 2011: 14)
(Healey et al. 2014: 33)

Seminars and lectures
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of communication', lecture/seminar delivered at Institution, City, date and month, URL. Accessed date [if available].

For example:

Citation:
(Stewart 2014: n.pag.)

Transcripts
Transcript references appear similar to the medium of the source (i.e., book, website, etc.) but with some slight variations, including attributing the reference to the individual delivering the speech/performance rather than the platform hosting the transcription.

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), 'Title of transcription', transcript, date and month [if available], Platform/Host, URL. Accessed date [if available].

For example:

Citation:
(Carrick 2016: n.pag.)

Religious texts
Italics are not commonly used for citing the Bible, the Torah, the Qur’an and other religious texts. See New Hart’s Rules, Chapter 13 for guidance.

Bible
Reference:
Book and chapter: verse (Year), Title of Bible Version, edition, City: Publisher.

For example:
Citation:
(Matthew 5: 3–12, 1985)

Qur'an
Reference:
Qur'an (not in italics), surah/chapter: verse (Year), Initial. Surname of translator (trans.) [if applicable], City: Publisher.
For example:
Citation:
(Qur'an 18: 20, 2010)

Working paper
Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of paper’, working paper, City: Institution/Organization.
For example:
Citation:
(Grande 1998: 32)
4. FILM AND BROADCAST MEDIA

Our preference is for USA and UK (rather than US and UK or United States and United Kingdom) when stating the country of production. Quotations from non-text-based media (i.e. film, music, DVD, television, vlog, radio, artwork), do not require reference to a page number within the citation.

DVD
If you need to cite a specific DVD release of a film in the reference list, the following information should be provided:

Reference:
Director Surname, Name (Year), Title, DVD, edition, Country: Production Company.

For example:

Citation:
(Director Surname Year).
(Jackson 1993)

DVD extras and features
Interviews, features and other material from DVDs can be included in the reference list. These should list the following information:

Reference:
Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of piece’, Title of DVD/Film/Series, DVD extras, Country: Production Company.

For example:

Citation:
(Thomas and Bell 2007)

Film
Films should be listed alphabetically by director in the main reference list, not under a separate ‘Films cited’ list.

Reference:
Director Surname, Name (Year), Title, Country: Production Company.

For example:
Spielberg, Steven (1993), Jurassic Park, USA: Universal Studios.

Citation:
(Director Surname Year).
(Spielberg 1993)

Film festivals

Film festivals would not usually be listed in a reference list, but if this is necessary, see ‘Music festival’ or ‘Music tour’. For festival catalogues, see ‘Electronic Sources’ or other print reference types. When referred to in the body of the text, film festivals should be in title case with no quotation marks. If the particular edition of the festival has a theme, this can be placed in single quotation marks, in title case.

For example:

The 2010 World Festival of Youth and Students was held in Caracas with the theme ‘For Peace and Solidarity, We Struggle against Imperialism and War!’

Foreign film

It is not necessary to provide translations of non-English-language titles. However, if you would like to provide English translations for titles in other languages, use the format below.

Official translations

Films that have been officially released with an alternative title are set in title case, in italics within brackets.

Reference:

Surname, Name (Year), Original Title (Official Translation), Country: Production Company.

For example:

Citation:

Original Title (Translation) (Name of Director, Year)

Shi mian mai fu (House of Flying Daggers) (Zhang, 2004)

In the text:

Original Title (English Title) then English Title thereafter.

Unofficial translations (i.e. those by the author)

Unofficial translations of film titles (by the author for illustration), are set in sentence case, roman type, in single quotation marks within brackets.

Reference:

Surname, Name (Year), Original Title (‘Unofficial translation’), Country: Production Company.

For example:

Mehra, Rakesh Omprakash (2006), Rang De Basanti (‘Colour it yellow’), India: ROMP.

Citation:

Original Title (‘Translation’) (Name of Director, Year)

Rang De Basanti (‘Colour it yellow’) (Mehra, 2006)
In the text:
Original Title (‘Unofficial English title’) then Original Title thereafter. Note that the unofficial translation should be in sentence case.

Radio

Radio programme

Reference:
Title of Programme (Year), Station, location, date and month, local time [as much as is available].

For example:
Letter from America (2002), BBC Radio 4, UK, 2 November, 8.45–9.00 p.m.

Citation:
(Letter from America 2002)

Radio drama (by episode)

Reference:
‘Episode Title’ (Year), Title of Programme, Station, location, date and month, local time.

For example:
‘Reality Bites for Fallon’ (2018), The Archers, BBC Radio 4, UK, 19 August, 7.00–7.13 p.m.

Citation:

For example:
Citation:
(Smith 2016: n.pag.)

Television episode
Reference:
‘Episode Title’ (Date), director (dir.), Series Title, Season number Episode number (date and month, Country: Production Company).
For example:
Citation:
(‘Episode Title’ Year)
(‘Blood of My Blood’ 2016)
If you would like to cite the production company, set a comma after the date.
(‘Blood of My Blood’ 2016, HBO)

Television series
With end date
Reference:
Title (Year–Year, Country: Production Company).
For example:
Citation:
(Firefly 2002–03)
See ‘Television episode’ for citing production company as well as broadcast years.

Ongoing
Reference:
Title (Year–present, Country: Production Company).
For example:
Game of Thrones (2011–present, USA: HBO).
Citation:
(Game of Thrones 2001–present)
See ‘Television episode’ for citing production company as well as broadcast years.

Several versions/translations

Reference:
Original Title (Translated/Alternative Title) (Years, Country and Country: Production Company and Production Company).

For example:

Citation:
See ‘Television episode’ for citing production company as well as broadcast years.
5. ELECTRONIC SOURCES AND NEW MEDIA

Quotations from non-text-based media (i.e. film, music, DVD, television, vlog, radio, artwork), do not require reference to a page number within the citation.

Quotations from text-based media (i.e. websites, blogs), should be cited using a page number, or n.pag. for clarity.

Websites

Websites and blog names are set in roman, title case with no quotation marks. If citing the entire website, rather than a specific article with a separate author, the website can appear as the author. See 'Online magazine or journal article'.

Reference:
Title of Website OR Surname, Name (Year), ‘Title of webpage’, Website Title, date and month, URL. Accessed date.

For example:

Citation:

See ‘Video/vlog’.

Google Earth
Reference:
Google Earth version [if available] (Year data released), Image location, coordinates, elevation, URL. Accessed date.
For example:
Citation:
(Google Earth 6.2 2012)
6. MUSIC AND PERFORMANCE

For all music references, the band name can replace the name of the recording/performing artist or composer. For performance references, the name of the company can be used when there is no director/choreographer information available.

Quotations from non-text-based media (i.e. film, music, DVD, television, vlog, radio, artwork), do not require reference to a page number within the citation.

CD/disk media

Reference:
Title of Publication (Year), City: Producer/Publisher/Distributor.

For example:
The Official DSA Complete Learner Driver Pack (2006), London: TSO.

Citation:
(The Official DSA Complete Learner Driver Pack 2006)

Song/composition

Song titles should be in title case within single quotation marks. Album information should be provided if available.

Reference:

Preferred Spellings

We follow standard UK English, using the Oxford English Dictionary or the Oxford Dictionary for Writers and Editors as our main sources of reference. If in doubt, please consult one of these texts.

Please note that there is a preference for ‘ize’ over ‘ise’ endings (e.g. ‘organize’, ‘globalize’) in cases where both are correct under UK English. There is a list of common exceptions at the end of the ‘Preferred Spellings’ list.

Using ‘ize’ Endings

We use ‘ize’ rather than ‘ise’ endings where both are generally acceptable. Please note that ‘yze’ endings are not used in UK English (‘analyse’, not ‘analyze’).

There are some words, however, where an ‘ise’ ending must always be used. Some common examples of these are listed below:

advertise advise apprise arise comprise compromise demise despise devise disenfranchise disguise enfranchise enterprise excise exercise improvise incise merchandise premise revise supervise surmise surprise televise
Accessible Language

Last updated June 2020.

The recommendations below reflect current thinking on language for writing in the academic accessibility community. Certain words or phrases can reflect bias or negative attitudes towards disabled people, and in fact any identifiable group of people. Choosing language that is neutral, accurate and represents the preference of the groups to which it refers conveys respect and integrity.

Our accessibility strategy is based on the social model of disability. Under social model thinking, the person has an impairment and is disabled by oppressive barriers of attitude, structures and environments in society. Disabled people are anyone with a long-term impairment who is oppressed and discriminated against because of these barriers. Not everyone uses the social model and that’s ok.

Visit Scope’s webpage on this link for more information about models of disability.

Words to use and avoid

There are many terms that are considered especially offensive to people with disabilities. Listed here are some tips that are specifically relevant for accessibility researchers. Avoid passive, victim words. Use language that respects disabled people as active individuals with control over their own lives.

Avoid
- (the) handicapped, (the) disabled
- afflicted by, suffers from, victim of
- confined to a wheelchair, wheelchair-bound
- mentally handicapped, mentally defective, retarded, subnormal
- cripple, invalid
- spastic
- able-bodied
- mental patient

Use
- disabled (people)
- has [name of condition or impairment]
- wheelchair user
- with a learning disability (singular)
- with learning disabilities (plural)
- disabled person
- person with cerebral palsy
- non-disabled
- person with a mental health condition

Inclusive Language

Intellect is proud to work with colleagues within the BAME and LGBTQ+ communities and to publish work that focuses on culturally, ethnically and geographically diverse research.

Intellect reserves the right to edit and correct any use of offensive language. Offensive language includes words and phrases that:

- Reinforce stereotypes;
- Reinforce derogatory labels;
- Include microaggressions;
- Exclude certain groups of people through assumptions;
- Patronize or trivialize certain groups of people;
- Cause discomfort or offence.

Intellect appreciates that not everyone is comfortable with the term BAME (Black, Asian and minority ethnic) and hopes that we are moving towards a future where it is no longer needed.
